ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

PRESIDENT CLINTON'S DECISION ON LANDMINE USE

• Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, earlier this week, President Clinton missed an excellent opportunity to exert U.S. leadership in the worldwide movement to ban landmines. As an original cosponsor of S. 1276, the Landmine Moratorium Extension Act, and having long supported measures to prevent the proliferation of landmines, I regret that the President did not take a stronger stance on banning the use of landmines, but instead equivocated, and again put off the ultimate U.S. goal of eliminating landmines. These weapons effect mainly innocent civilians, and in the case of so-called dumb mines, remain dangerous and threaten civilian populations indefinitely, often long after hostilities in an area have stopped. Such weapons make agriculture dangers, and hence hinder economic reconstruction and development.

For the United States to play the role the President professes to seek, that of leading the world to negotiating an end to the use of landmines, the United States needs to match its rhetoric with actions. It is my hope that the U.S. Government will soon take action to do just that, and move quickly and concretely to rid the world of the scourge of landmines.●
